McGILL Y.M.C.A. IMPORTANT IN STUDENT LIFE

"Strathcona Hall" a Byword
With McGill Men.

NEED FOR CO-OPERATION.

Work of the Association is for Furtherance of Students' Interests.

The Daily is indebted to the co-operation of Donald McLeod, general secretary of the McGill Y. M. C. A., for the following article:

Three generations of students have passed through McGill, and the fourth has just begun, since Strathcona Hall, the present home of the McGill Young Men's Christian Association was opened. Just a matter of about twelve and a half years. Not a long period in the history of an institution, it is true, yet sufficiently long for the name "Strathcona Hall" to have become a byword with McGill students, and for the institution itself to have become so well established in College life, that it is now considered an integral part of the University in general.

Perhaps it would be a healthy moral exercise for the present generation of students to pause for a moment, and try to imagine our University life without such institutions as the "Union" and "Strathcona Hall"; without an organization like "The Students' Council"; without "The Daily," and the new Stadium, etc., and all that these things mean. The picture would seem rather colorless; would it not? Yet the men who made McGill had none of these accessories to student life, but fully realizing the need for them, they set to work with a will to establish them, with the result that we to-day are calmly enjoying the privileges of which they only dreamed. A little reflection along those lines should make us more appreciative of the many advantages which are ours to-day, and less critical if the details in the carrying on of these institutions and activities do not always seem perfect. We came up to McGill and found all these things ready waiting for us, and somehow we took it for granted that they were always here. We are in danger of forgetting the lasting debt of gratitude we owe to the men of splendid spirit who have gone before, and there is great need that we be brought to a keener sense of that indebtedness, and to realize our duty in honorably discharging the same.

Obligations to the Past.

The question, then, naturally arises how we may best go about the discharging of our obligations to the past, because of these institutions that have been handed down to us. And while this article deals specifically with the place Strathcona Hall holds in College life, and its claims upon the general support of the student body, it also makes a strong plea for the same loyal support on behalf of the other organizations and institutions without which College life would be dull indeed. The question will be answered in terms of Strathcona Hall, but the sentiments expressed, and the earnestness of purpose behind them are equally applicable to the other institutions mentioned which play such an important part in our College life.

Take Advantage of Privileges.

One way in which we may help to discharge our obligation and express our appreciation to the past for an institution like Strathcona Hall, is by taking full advantage of the privileges offered us by it. That may seem an easy way, but it is by no means the least important, nor the least appreciated way of helping. Nothing would so quicken the hearts of the men who made Strathcona Hall possible, and who are still interested in it, than to know that its privileges were being fully used, and that it was

GLEE CLUB ARRANGES FOR FIRST REHEARSAL

Executive Lays Big Plans for the Future of the Club.

A meeting of the executive of the Glee Club was held in the music room of the Union on Saturday afternoon to discuss plans for the future work of the club. The executive included the officers and the representatives from the various faculties, altogether ten men.

As H. Campbell, the representative elected from Medicine, being also the conductor of the organization, it was decided to relieve him of his duties as representative, and to elect another man. The choice fell on G. N. Beyle.

The office of Librarian, or Custodian of the Music Literature, which the club will shortly possess, was created, and A. A. Scott was picked out, and set down in this niche.

After a short discussion, it was decided to hold the first practice in the Hall of the Union on Tuesday night, at 8 p.m.

There seems to be an idea prevalent among a good many students that a member of the Glee Club must be able to play a musical instrument. This is true to this extent: a member of the Glee Club must be able to play his own natural musical instrument, viz., his vocal "chords." The club asks for the co-operation of every man who sings or who thinks he can sing. Those who cannot will be informed to this effect very tactfully, and with a strict regard for the truth, and the advice may prove to be a decided benefit to the community at large.

The attendance at the opening meeting was very gratifying. But it is known that there are some more men in college who could very well have graced such gathering. Probably these men did not see the notices in the "Daily." In this connection, it may be remarked that many students do not take the trouble to read the notices in the "Daily." The college paper does its part, but it must have the attention of each student.

During the next few days, the representatives of the different faculties will go around among their fellow men in search of talent. In case they don't reach you, bear this in mind: if you can sing a funny or some other kind of song, if you can give a monologue with a little accompaniment (supplied by the club's accompanist, if necessary), or if you can amuse people in any way vocally, by all means let the Glee Club hear from you. The club needs you.

And now let us take a peep into the future. We see the various musical organizations at the University acting in close co-operation under a single guiding body. Whether it be a smoker or a dinner, the entertainment is supplied by members of the Mandolin Club, the Orchestra, or the Glee Club. Probably all of these clubs are taking part. Some time during the winter, a big concert is given by the Stadium the Scene of Most Important Event Since Outbreak of the War.

The final game for the Inter-faculty football championship was played off last Saturday on the McGill Stadium. For the second time in as many years Medicine succeeded in carrying off the laurels, and they proved that, in football at least, they are the best faculty in college at the present time. There were a large number of spectators present, as the C.O.T.C. paraded with their band, and also a goodly number of the fair sex from the R. V. C. graced the stands with their smiling faces.

As was expected, the game started out at a fast pace, but slowed up somewhat owing to the amount of interference being indulged in by the players. The officials were strict, and made both teams play football all the way through.

As the C.O.T.C. were late in arriving, the teams decided to start without them. To start the ball rolling, Tuohy kicked off for Medicine, and Fox ran the ball back several yards. Science failed to gain their yards, and on their third down, Fox attempted to kick, but the Medicine wings succeeded in blocking it. Medicine had possession of the ball on Science's thirty yard line, and on their second down, Tuohy kicked for a point. Medicine appeared to be very fast, their wings breaking through the lighter Science team at will. Science attempted to force their way down the field, but lost the ball on interference. On Medicine's first down, Pitts broke away for a nice run, but was off-side. Science again lost the ball, due to interference, and on their second down Tuohy kicked, but Fox ran it back several yards. On their third down Fox kicked for Science, and while attempting to tackle Parke, was hurt, but resumed play. On Medicine's third down, Upham kicked for another point, making it 2-0 for Medicine. After the ball had changed hands several times, Medicine secured possession of it and gained their yards on a nice end run. On their first down Upham kicked and Ferguson was forced to rouge. Score now 3-0 for Medicine. Fox kicked to Upham, and he ran it back 5 yards. On their first down Greenwood went through for a nice gain. Medicine gained their yards, and on their next down Tuohy attempted to kick a field goal, but missed. Chantal tackled Ferguson for another point. Science lost the ball on interference, and on Medicine's first down Greenwood gained 12 yards. Pitts went through for 10 yards more, but was hurt; he resumed play a few minutes later. On Medicine's next down, Corrigan broke away and secured a try, which Tuohy converted, making a total of ten points for Medicine. Fox hurt his ankle, but was all right in a short time. Quarter time was called just after Tuohy converted. The rooters at this stage of the game were making considerable noise, especially the Medicine supporters.

Second Quarter: Fox kicked, and Upham fumbled the ball; Science first down about mid-field. Science lost the ball on an offside, and Upham then fumbled the ball on an attempted end run. Fox then kicked for Science, and Lee made a nice tackle of Upham. Lee was playing a great game for Science, and he seemed to be the only Science man who could get down under Fox's kicks. Medicine lost the ball on offside, then stole the ball on Science's first down, but immediately lost it on interference. Greenwood gained possession of a fumbled ball. Science got the ball on an offside, and gained their yards. Fox then kicked into touch. On Medicine's first down, Tuohy fumbled, and

SOLICITING IN BARBER SHOPS.

It is a very common habit for barbers in most Barber's Shops to solicit their clients for Shampoos, Singeing, Massage or Tonics. They are without doubt "necessities" in order to keep the face and scalp in good condition. But Potvin's Trade is composed of an intelligent body of clients who care not to be solicited. So are my instructions to my barbers not to solicit your customers for everything on The Calendar.

CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN.

To-day marks the opening of the great Canadian Victory Loan Campaign—an appeal not only to patriotism, but to the purely unsentimental investor. Students, as a rule, are not regarded as being in a position to lend much assistance from a financial point of view, but on the other hand, they are by no means justified in considering themselves out of the "game" in the present appeal. It is expressly urged that this opportunity is not to be limited to those who can invest to the extent of thousands—they have already had their opportunity—but it is rather a presentation of the need for financial assistance, to the PEOPLE. The Victory Loan is a means of throwing open opportunity, financially speaking, to great and small. Apart from the duty of patriotism, which McGill students have been by no means slow to recognise, the Victory Loan offers exceptional inducement as a purely business proposition. Unqualified security combined with a satisfactorily high rate of interest are quite sufficient to redeem the Loan from being merely an appeal for self-sacrifice. The present situation is one which makes it absolutely essential in the interests of Canada that her financial resources be, not only conserved, but increased to the greatest possible extent. The future of the Dominion is at stake, and hence this general appeal to Canadians as a people, NOT MERELY AS A GROUP OF CAPITALISTS.

There is an opportunity, in this call for financial co-operation, for McGill students. We have no doubt that the matter will receive the careful consideration of every man connected with the University, and that all who have at their disposal a surplus of fifty dollars, will invest it, not merely through a desire to improve themselves financially, but with the sincere intention of extending to those of their comrades who have sacrificed so much already, the support and resources which it is the aim of the Victory Loan to afford.

CHOOSING A DEPARTMENT.

If a canvass could be made of all Freshmen and Sophomores who have determined either their choice of a department in Junior year, or the nature of their life's occupation, the results would indicate that a large number have as yet made no decision.

The individual who goes through college without having determined the work for which his talents and inclination peculiarly fit him has failed to grasp the greater opportunity afforded him by early specialization. There are many reasons for this lack of decision. But if the college student is not yet a man, it is certain that he is no longer a boy. That his choice is not made early means that he will lack the concentrated preparation which will enable him to pay his debt to society in the most expeditious way.

Great advantages entail responsibilities. College men as a class must supply the brains of the nation and regulate the trend of national conditions and policies for the greatest good of the greatest number. But never before in the history of the nation has the need for college men been greater than now. The task of these men after the war is to remodel the autocratic nations, to reconstruct the democratic nations. He must consummate the supreme task of preventing future issues between autocracy and democracy. But he must think before he can act.

For those who have found difficulty in making a decision, the University has inaugurated the system of advisors, because in its experience it has found that the undergraduate frequently realizes his sore need of friendly and reliable counsel. It may be that a consultation with his advisor will enable a first year student to determine which studies will best fit him to render the nation the most efficient and valuable service.—Adapted from the "Princetonian."

"She" is there with you, unless you happen to be on the stage. After the show, everyone looks up the college songs that were sung in his copy of the revised McGill Song Book, for every student possesses a copy. Can this not become a reality?

SCIENCE '20 BIBLE CLASS.

The members of Science '20 are reminded of the meeting that was held last Thursday under the supervision of "Jim" Coote. For those that were not present it may be said that the class has pledged itself to attend the single Bible Study meeting that will be held in Strathcona Hall at five o'clock this evening. Nothing has been said about subsequent meetings.

COL. BIRKETT ILL.

A recent dispatch from London states that Col. Birkett has been obliged to relinquish the command of the McGill Hospital. He is now in England, about to undergo an operation for an internal complaint, and although able to get about, he is advised that he cannot stand the climate and duties in the hospital longer.

ARTS '19 MAN WOUNDED.

Lieut. L. H. Biggar has been slightly wounded in the recent fighting, according to the official casualty lists. Entering McGill with the class of Arts '19, Lieut. Biggar enlisted before completing one year of his course, being attached to the headquarters staff at Ottawa. He subsequently joined the 148th Battalion under Lieut. Col. Magee as a Lieutenant, and proceeded overseas with that unit. When the battalion was broken up, Lieut. Biggar was transferred to the 13th Battalion. He is at present only 19 years of age.

MANY FORMER PROMINENT MCGILL MEN ARE MENTIONED IN THE RECENT HEAVY CASUALTY LISTS

Former Science and Arts Students Conspicuous Among the Casualties—Canadian Mounted Rifles and Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are Chief Sufferers.

Major H. A. Scott.

That their only remaining son, Major Harold Archibald Scott, Sci. '16, of a Canadian Mounted Rifles Battalion, was killed in action on October 28, was the official word received last week by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Scott, 174 Powell avenue, Ottawa.

Major Scott was attending McGill when war broke out, and not long afterwards returned to Ottawa, and there took out a commission in the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles. After completing his third year in Science, he qualified as a Lieutenant, and after training with his unit at Ottawa, and at Barriefield Camp, went overseas in October, 1915.

It was not long before he was promoted to a captain and a few months ago his superior officers, recognizing his qualifications as a soldier and leader, promoted him to the rank of major. He came through some very hard fighting, and was only wounded once, but has been in the trenches almost continuously for nearly two years.

In June last, before receiving his present rank, the following was sent his commanding officer, after he had left his company and returned a severe German attack:

"Please convey to Captain Scott and the patrol of the — my appreciation of their action, which showed enterprise and determination. (Sgd.) Major General Commanding."

Major Scott was a popular officer of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards previous to the outbreak of war.

Major K. L. Duggan.

A private cable message received last week by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Duggan, 20 McTavish street, Montreal, announced that their son, Major Kenneth Duggan, Sci. '10, of the Mounted Rifles, had been reported missing, and is believed to have been killed. Major Duggan went overseas as a lieutenant with the Mounted Rifles, in February, 1915. Last December he was wounded, and, after convalescing in England, he was rejoined his unit last June. He was promoted to his captaincy and majority in the field, and was mentioned in despatches for gallant work. Major Duggan was graduated from McGill in 1910, and previous to joining the colors was on the staff of the Montreal Harbor Commissioners. He was 24 years of age, and his only brother, Lieut. Henrik Duggan, Sci. '12, of the Royal Engineers, was killed in action at Loos two years ago.

Capt. J. A. Lalanne, M.C.

Captain J. A. Lalanne, M.C., Arts '17, who has been wounded for the second time, enlisted with a private in the University Company in 1915, and went overseas as a sergeant. After serving for some months with the P.P.C.L.I. in France, he was promoted to a lieutenant, and posted to the 60th Battalion in June, 1916, he was wounded, and last winter was awarded the Military Cross. After the 60th was broken up, he was transferred to the Canadian Mounted Rifles. Capt. Lalanne's home is in Brownsburg, Que., and he attended the Lachute Academy before coming to McGill in 1913.

Major K. B. Carruthers.

Major Kenneth Burpee Carruthers, Sci. '08, of the Canadian Light Infantry, was killed in action on October 28, according to word which has been received by his father, J. B. Carruthers, Kingston, Ont. Major Carruthers, who was graduated from the Royal Military College, Kingston, in 1904, was superintendent of the Molly Gibson Mines, British Columbia, when he enlisted in 1915 in the 27th Battalion, C.F.A., as a subaltern. Later he was promoted to a captaincy, and just a short time ago won his majority after an extended period of service with the guns. He was one of several brothers in khaki, and was wounded last summer.

Captain W. H. Morris, M.C.

Captain William Hugo Morris, M.C., Sci. '16, who fell fighting with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Meusehele, came from Ottawa and was a son of ex-Mayor W. D. Morris, of that city, who went overseas with the 230th Forestry Battalion as quartermaster. Capt. Morris entered McGill from the Ottawa Collegiate Institute in 1912, and entered upon a course in Transportation. He played football and took part in other college activities, and in 1914 joined the McGill C. O. T. C. When the First University Company was raised by Captain Gregor Barclay in 1915, he was one of the first McGill men to join as a private, and when the unit proceeded overseas he held the rank of quartermaster-sergeant. Captain Morris went to the front as a sergeant, and after some months' service with the P.P.C.L.I., won his commission. He returned to the firing line, and in the fighting on the Somme won his Military Cross and captaincy for gallantry while acting as Battalion Intelligence Officer. Captain Morris was a most popular student, and of a type which the University could ill afford to lose.

Captain O. E. LeRoy.

Captain Osmond Edgar LeRoy, Arts '95, serving in France with a Canadian Light Infantry battalion, has died of wounds received in the recent fighting in which the Canadians have participated. Captain LeRoy, who was a member of the staff of the Dominion Geological Survey, was an Ottawa man, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander in which the Canadian have participated.

at St. Andrew's East, Que. Capt. LeRoy enlisted in the ranks, and only recently won his captaincy. He was born at St. Andrew's East, Que., in 1873, and after taking his B.A. degree returned to the University and won his M.Sc. in 1902.

Lieut. C. J. Lightbody.

Lieut. Cluny J. Lightbody, Arts '17, of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, who is reported to have died of wounds, was a partial student in Arts and a student in Theology at the Montreal Presbyterian College when he enlisted in the spring of 1915 in the First University Company reinforcing the P.P.C.L.I. Lieut. Lightbody went overseas as a private in the trenches, with that rank until wounded at Ypres in June, 1916. Upon recovery from his wounds, he was offered a commission in the Y.M.C.A. service, but preferred to take it out in combatant work. He therefore trained at the Canadian Military School in England, and qualified for his commission. Lieut. Lightbody was stationed in England until last month, when he left for the front. His friend, Lieut. Arthur S. Lamb, Med. '17, was one of those who said good-bye to him in London.

Lieut. Lightbody entered McGill originally with the class of '16. He was active in Y.M.C.A. work, and most popular with his fellow-students. Before entering McGill he studied at the Y.M.C.A. Training College, Springfield, Mass. His home was in Edinburgh, Mass., and last winter, while in Scotland on furlough, he married a Scottish girl.

Lieut. J. J. Harold.

Lieut. J. J. Harold, Arts '16, of a Canadian Mounted Rifles battalion, reported wounded, enlisted when a Third Year student in Arts in the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles as a trooper. When the C.M.R. were dismounted, he was promoted to the rank of sergeant, and served as such until wounded at Ypres in June, 1916. After being removed to England, he was offered a commission and accepted it. Not long ago he returned to the front. Lieut. Harold's home is at 244 Mountain street, Montreal. He was a member of the editorial staff of the McGill Daily before enlistment, and was a non-commissioned officer in the McGill C.O.T.C.

Lieut. T. S. Hall.

Lieut. Terrence Smythe Hall, Sci. '17, of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, has been wounded. He is the youngest son of the late Hon. John S. Hall and of Mrs. Hall, 355 Mountain street, Montreal. Lieut. Hall was educated at Bishop's College School, and afterwards came to McGill University for two years, taking a Science degree.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW.

The Literary and Debating Society held a very successful business meeting on Monday in the Engineering Building for the purpose of re-organizing. S. A. Holling, Arts '17, was elected to the office of President, which was left vacant when V. S. Green enlisted in the R.N.A.S. Other unoccupied offices were filled and plans laid for the carrying on of the session's work.

Monday afternoon the Science football team succeeded in defeating Medicine by a score of 7-6. The Inter-faculty championship depended on this game, as Medicine had already to their credit one more victory than had the Science men. The game was decidedly close, neither team having much advantage over the other. This victory on the part of Science necessitated a play-off, which was scheduled to take place Saturday afternoon.

A Bible Study Supper was held in Strathcona Hall on Tuesday evening. An excellent supper was served and over seventy men were present. Dr. Symonds was the speaker of the occasion.

The first meeting of the Cercle Français to be held this year took place at the Dutch Tea Rooms on Tuesday evening. Dr. Villard addressed the meeting.

At this year's initial meeting of the American Club, held Tuesday evening, plans were formulated for the holding of a Thanksgiving Banquet at the Windsor Hotel. E. A. Livingstone, Science '19, was elected to the office of President of the society.

Wednesday evening was the occasion for the holding of the annual Hall Dinner in Strathcona Hall. The event proved a great success, about 75 residents being present.

An informal meeting of the Montreal City Hockey League was held in the Union Wednesday. Shamrocks, Loyola, Laval, McGill, and the Nationals all signified their intention of entering their respective teams this winter.

The initial meeting of the Glee Club was held in the Union Thursday evening. A large and enthusiastic crowd was present, and many pledged their support to the furthering of the work of organization. T. V. Blinmore was elected to the office of president. The fortnightly meeting of the Medical Undergraduate Society was held Friday evening in the Medical Building. Lieut. Ioanidu of Rumania, was the speaker of the occasion.

Saturday afternoon was the occasion for the Inter-faculty football series play-off between Medicine and Science. The event was in a measure a revival of the pre-war athletic activities. The C.O.T.C. paraded to the Stadium in a body, and occupied a reserved section of the stand. Medicine showed superiority in every stage of the game, and the final score stood 15-2 in their favor.

course. When he was eighteen years of age he enlisted in the ranks of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, at Sherbrooke, in February, 1915, and went overseas with Lieut.-Col. Baker, M.P., Law '00. The 5th Canadian Rifles took part in some of the most severe fighting of last year, and when Col. Baker was killed, with so many of his officers, Lieut. Hall, as he was then, was also slightly wounded. On his recovery he took a qualifying course and was given a commission as a lieutenant in his old regiment, and for some time acted as a bombing officer. The cable announcing him as being in the casualty list, simply states that he is wounded, and no details are given as to the nature of his wounds or where he is. Lieut. Hall has an elder brother, Lieut. J. S. Hall, Sci. '14, serving with the Imperial forces in the Tank Corps.

Lieut. W. D. Chambers.

Ottawa relatives have received word that Lieut. W. D. Chambers, past student, who was recently reported missing, had returned to his unit, unwounded.

While the brief cable gave no particulars as to the experience undergone by Lieut. Chambers, it is known that he, with five other aviators, lost their bearings during a heavy storm, and landed far in front of the lines. How they made their safe return is an incident of the war yet to be learned.

Flight Lieut. Chambers is a son of Mrs. A. C. Chambers, 266 MacLaren street, Ottawa, and is well known as an athlete. He went overseas with the 4th Battalion (Montreal), and after spending a year in the trenches obtained a transfer to the Royal Flying Corps, of which he has been a member since September, 1916. He has so far escaped Hun metal, but has been down with trench fever.

Sergt. P. T. H. Ashby.

Sergt. P. T. H. Ashby, Agr. '10, of the Canadian Infantry, reported wounded, enlisted in the First University Company commanded by Gregor Barclay as a private, and has risen to the rank of sergeant in the P.P.C.L.I. His home is in England.

Bomb. A. H. Chisholm.

Another McGill man recently reported a casualty is Bombardier A. H. Chisholm, Sci. '17, of the McGill Siege Battery, who is stated to be ill. Bombardier Chisholm was a Third Year student in Science, when he enlisted in 1916 in the McGill Siege Battery commanded by Major W. D. Tait. He was an officer of the Maritime Club, and held other undergraduate appointments. His home is in Blue Mountain, N.S., and before coming to McGill he was a student at the New Glasgow High School.

Gunner T. E. Gilchrist.

Gunner T. E. Gilchrist, Sci. '10, of the Canadian Field Artillery, reported severely wounded, enlisted last year in Ottawa in the 64th Battery, and later was transferred to another battery on the firing line. He is the son of E. H. Gilchrist, 1111 Wellington street, Ottawa.

Rev. Charles Reagh, past student, has just been appointed curate of the Church of the Advent, Boston, Mass. After leaving McGill, Rev. Mr. Reagh went to Chicago, where he was admitted to the Bar of Illinois. He practiced in Chicago for some years. Then he served as an officer in the Canadian contingent in the South African War; took a four years' course in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, and held a commission in the Chilean Navy. Afterwards he took a course in divinity at the Western Theological Seminary. He was ordained priest by Bishop White a year ago, since when he has held a rectorate at Kendallville, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ekers, Montreal, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hazel Marguerite, to Captain John Ogilvie Hastings, past student, son of the late W. A. Hastings, and of Mrs. Hastings, Montreal. The marriage will take place shortly.

Lieut. H. Walter Davis, past student with Sci. '17, has recently been invalided home after an extended period of service in France with the Royal Canadian Regiment. He was wounded at Ypres in June, 1916.

Sergt. A. Sydney Bruneau, Arts '13, Law '17, late of the P.P.C.L.I., has been appointed head of the Montreal office of the Board of Pensions Commissioners at the Drummond Building. Mr. Bruneau enlisted in the First University Company when a First Year student in Law. Last winter he was returned to Canada and resumed his studies, being graduated, and later admitted to the Bar. He is among the best known of recent McGill graduates, and was a member of the Montreal Gazette staff while at the University.

A. Harold Chisholm, Sci. '16, has received his wings in the Royal Flying Corps, after a period of training at Camp Borden.

According to the London Gazette, Gunner Philip Abinovitch, Law '18, and a graduate of the School of Commerce, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant in the Canadian Siege Artillery after a considerable period of service in the ranks of the 107th Canadian Siege Battery (Cape's). Gunner Abinovitch will be remembered as a member of the Intermediate McGill football team in 1914. He enlisted in Cape's Battery in 1915.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smithers, Montreal announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Georgina, to Major A. L. S. Mills, D.S.O., Law '14, son of the late Lord Bishop of Ontario and Mrs. Mills.

Lieut.-Colonel Gerald V. White, M.P., Sci. '01, who is now overseas, may be given an acclamation for North Renfrew at the coming elections. It is said that he will be given the win-the-war nominations at the convention to be held this week.

The Royal Military College of Canada.

THERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instructions to all branches of military science to all officers and officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact, it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers of the active list of the Imperial army, lent for the purpose, and there is in addition a complete staff of professional and civil subjects which form such an important part of the College course. Medical attendance is also provided.

While the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive a practical and scientific training in subjects essential to a sound modern education.

The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario to obtain the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years in three terms of six months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instruction, material, and all extras is about $800.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military districts.

For full particulars regarding this examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

REV. W. G. WALTON ADDRESSES "SING."

Last night, at the Sing, in Strathcona Hall, the pleasure was given of hearing Rev. W. G. Walton, who for 25 years has been a missionary to the Indians and Esquimaux on the East Coast of Hudson Bay. Mr. Walton stated that owing to his limited time he would deal only with his work among the Esquimaux.

The Esquimaux, he explained, travel in winter, because they travel by dog-teams, while the Indians travel in summer, because they travel by canoe. The Esquimaux lives in a snow house, which looks like a lemon cut in two, and the two halves placed side by side, and which is made of snow. Mr. Walton explained that every opportunity for teaching them must be taken, and many hardships had to be undergone. It is impossible for air to come into some houses because of the thin layer of ice over the inner surface, which has formed by the melting of the snow and then the freezing of it when the people went out.

The Esquimaux are raw meat eaters, because it is impossible for them to be anything else, as it would be impossible to make a fire in the snow houses in which they live. The only light they have is obtained by taking a little stone pot of oil and using moss as wick. An Esquimaux can come up on a seal without practically any noise, and this helps him in hunting because he can get up so close to a seal in order to harpoon it.

The life of the Esquimaux is interesting because he is of a jolly nature, and is bright and cheerful even when he is facing starvation. Modes of thinking you is an example of the different natures of the Indian and Esquimaux; Esquimaux says "Chee-ah," while the Indian makes a noise which would almost resemble a growl. Esquimaux are very fond of singing, and it was by this means, Mr. Walton stated, that he gained their friendship at first. The language of the Esquimaux or Hukies, as they are called, is a guttural language, and is very trying on the voice.

Mr. Walton said that missionary work was a reality in which he firmly believed because he had seen results. Last April he had 650 Esquimaux who came to hear the teaching of God, some of them coming 800 miles. He went on to say there was no sacrifice because there were no times to think of it. Cannibalism, murder and immorality, which was very prevalent 25 years ago, is now practically unknown.

Help is now needed, and Mr. Walton's purpose in coming south is to try to secure help from the Government. He feels that it would be too bad to let the missionary work go back.

Buy A Victory Bond by following the Gillette Banking System

DO you pay a man to shave you every day? Then you're lucky if it doesn't cost you more than the price of a $50.00 Victory Bond a year!

This shaving outlay might be $50.00 well spent if it saved some of your own valuable time. But on the contrary it takes three or four times as long to get shaved away from home, as to shave yourself with a Gillette Safety Razor. You're not only wasting your money but your time as well—and you are taking up part of another man's working hours which should, under present conditions, be spent at something of greater service to the nation.

Buy your Bonds from your Banker, Broker or Local Committee.
Buy your Gillette from your Druggist, Hardware Dealer or Jeweler.

If you have been using a Gillette you have been saving $1.00 per week at least. Buy an extra $50.00 Victory Bond for each year that the Gillette has saved that much for you!

If you haven't been "banking" money this way, buy both a Gillette and a Bond now, and let one pay for the other! Do the same for your son, as a double lesson in practical patriotism and self-reliant thrift.

Dividends will be double, too—from the Bond in cash, and from the Gillette in such shaving comfort as can be secured in no other way.

NOW is the time to make the investment!

R. V. C. NOTES.

Miss Hall, the Head Worker of the Settlement, asks for volunteers to help Mrs. Thompson, who is in charge of the Chinese Kindergarten. Volunteers are wanted especially to help with the children who outgrow the kindergarten age, and for whom a senior class should be formed. Students are asked to mention this to friends who may be interested. The Kindergarten classes are held daily from 1-3 p.m., for Chinese children.

A meeting of the Partial Society will be held in the Common Room tomorrow, November 13, at 10 a.m. Important! All Partial come!

There will be a meeting of the Menorah Society on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 4:15 p.m., in Room 2 of the R. V. C. Subjects of discussion: "Modern Hebrew Literature," "Jewish Music." All R.V.C. students are cordially invited to be present.

There are a few 1918 Annuals still to be had. Apply to Janitor of Arts Building.

Have you helped in the Red Cross Work yet? If not, plan to do your share this week. Members of the Executive will be in the Common Room to give out material:

Monday—11 to 1.
Tuesday—11 to 1.
Wednesday—4 to 6.
Thursday—4 to 6.
Friday—4 to 6.
Bedpads, bandages, bed-socks, small kit bags, as well as socks, are ready to be made. So come and help out.

THE MASQUERADE.

"Say—from henceforth let's be frank and earnest!"

"Right O! Frank!"

"Well Ernest, what'll we do?"

"I have it—we'll write something for the Daily; they are always agitating for an effusion to fill up space."

"Great head, what'll we write about? The masquerade at the R. V. C.?"

"The very thing; you dictate it, and I, in my calligraphy, will take it down."

"The editor will never be able to read it if I let you write it, but we should worry!"

"Now, ready, begin—"

Some days ago, last Monday to be specific, a most weirdly gorgeous procession appeared in the R. V. C. hall proclaiming to whom it might concern, that on the evening of Friday, Nov. 9th, there would be a masquerade party in the Common Room. Great indeed was the excitement caused by this phenomenon, and many were the speculations as to the costumes which would be worn. Rumor insisted that "so and so" would be there; and that "such and such" was really bald, but my goodness, I can't hide my hair, it will just have to show!

Everybody lent everybody else everything they asked for, and everybody tried to be agreeable just for once, so that their requests would not be refused. (Excellent receipt for the promotion of good feeling—give a party once a week!)

At last the momentous day arrived, the whisperings "don't you tell a soul what I am going as," became even more noticeable than before. Impertinent curiosity was ruthlessly squashed, but still the good feeling continued, because if any loans had been called in, disastrous indeed would have been the consequences. At 6.30 sharp, dinner was served to a crowd of impatient too-excited-to-be-hungry individuals, and as soon as that was over, everyone disappeared. As the clock struck eight, in a solemn tones, Downstairs came walking one by one. The queerest creatures 'neath the sun: A Pierrette, and a smart Pierrot; A Belgian Officer hero; A green and wiggly-wiggly worm; A nurse who smelt of chloroform. A little girl who was her charge; A baker who was very large; A black-and-yellow pussy-cat, Who purled if patted; if punched, spat;

A bunny white, with big, long ears, Old Father Time, with all his cares, His hour-glass, and his sickle, too, Look out! He's coming after you! And Miss Ing Link was there in white.

A tall ghost, too, a ghastly sight; Jemimah, and her husband black, An Indian raving maniac.

(To the reader—we know it is not considered good form in composition to drop into rhyme, but Milton uses impassioned verse for emphasis, so why can't we?)

When this heterogeneous polychromatic collection of people had assembled the piano struck up a grand march, Miss Lichtenstein very kindly acting as musician, each person took a partner, and walked past a representation of "Victory Loan," receiving a pamphlet of instruction on the subject ("By the way, Frank, have you bought a bond yet? No? Well, come on down with me this afternoon while I get mine, and you can get one, too." "Right, O, Ernest; I am with you there—Proceed.") On passing the hall door for the second time, a most curious and truly interesting figure presented itself—a real live knitting bag, filled with wool, and stuck with all sorts and kinds of knitting needles and crochet hooks. Upon minute examination this was found to be Miss Cameron. Later in the evening Miss Cartwright arrived, carrying in her arms, excuse me, his arms (which do I mean, Frank, I seem to be getting a bit balled up on all this? Well, anyhow, you know what I mean), the most adorable little feline specimen you ever saw.

Next followed the unmasking, which created quite a furore of excitement, as several of the disguises had been so clever as to defy penetration even by those of the utmost perspicacity. A few minutes later a diamond hunt was instituted—mountains were climbed, foreign countries visited, and precious gems dug up out of the most unpromising looking places. Miss L. Macdonald and Miss M. Pickel tied for first place in this competition.

By this time, those whose powers of observation may be described as acute had noticed two large paper bags suspended from the ceiling. Not wishing to expose their vulgar curiosity, however, no remarks had been made—but, ah! patience rewarded at last! see—with a ruler are they broken and a perfect hail of candy falls to the ground to be picked up instantaneously by a hungry horde.

A Science man fell on it. On Science's second down Fox kicked, and Lee tackled Upham for Science's first point. Medicine immediately lost the ball on an offside, and Fox made a nice run. Medicine got the ball on an offside, and Upham kicked to Ferguson, who was downed on Science's 5 yard line. Gilhooley tackled Sutherland for a loss. Science gained a few yards, but lost the ball on interference. Tuohy fumbled the ball on an attempted end run, but Busby recovered it and kicked to Fox. On Science's first down Parke broke away for a 40 yard run. On Science's first down Fox kicked to Tuohy, who attempted to return it, but the ball hit the goal post and bounced back. Upham gained possession of it, but Lee tackled him for a rouge. Half-time was called with the score standing 10-2 in favour of Medicine.

During the resting period the band played a selection and, then Lt.-Col. Starke presented "Bill" Hazel with the C.O.T.C. Long Service Medal. "Bill" is at present in charge of the Stadium, and is very popular with the students. He served for twenty years in the Canadian Militia with the Artillery. Lt.-Col. Starke then led the crowd in three cheers for "Bill".

Second Half: Parke kicked off, and on Medicine's first down Gilhooley gained 12 yards on an end run. Medicine lost the ball on interference, but Busby immediately stole it. Medicine then gained their yards, but lost the ball on interference. Fox kicked, Tuohy fumbled, and Dyer fell on it. In doing so he was hurt, but resumed play. Science gained their yards, but Medicine got possession of a fumbled ball. Pitts gained 12 yards, but on Medicine's next down Anderson stole the ball. Fox kicked to Upham, who ran back 5 yards. Parke was again hurt, and retired in favour of Camp. Greenwood gained 12 yards but Medicine lost the ball on interference. Corrigan was slightly hurt, but continued. Medicine got possession of a fumbled ball, and Gilhooley gained 15 yards. Medicine weren't heeling the ball out to suit the referee, and he gave Science a free kick. Fox then kicked to Tuohy, who returned it for a gain for Medicine. Fox kicked on Science's second down. Roscoe was hurt, and Smith replaced him at outside wing. Upham then kicked to Fox, who ran it back. Three-quarter time was called with Science in possession of the ball.

Fourth Quarter: At the start of the fourth quarter the roosters were "yelling their heads off." On changing ends Fox kicked to Busby. On Medicine's first down Cully gained 15 yards, and Upham lost the ball on interference. Fox then kicked, and Medicine fumbled. Fox again kicked, and Upham ran it back 15 yards. Medicine gained their yards, but lost it on offside. Fox then kicked to Tuohy, who ran it back. Fleck replaced Upham, who was slightly hurt. Cully gained 12 yards. Medicine then broke away and went three-quarters the length of the field. Greenwood gained 10 yards, Pitts 12 more, Gilhooley made 16

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hulbert, Waterloo, Que., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Alice, to Mr. Allan Lindsay Clark, ScI. '17, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, of Victoria, B.C. The marriage is arranged to take place early in December.

J. W. Beverley, ScI. '17, and Richard E. Heartz, ScI. '17, have been awarded cadetships in the Royal Flying Corps.

FORMER MED. STUDENT WOUNDED.

Lieut. G. A. Parkins, Med. '19, who appears in the latest casualty list as wounded, was a medical student at McGill, having completed his second year in medicine when he enlisted, after having taken his Arts course. He is 21 years of age.

Early in 1916 he joined the Army Service Corps, and went to England as a private. Arrived there, he took a course for infantry subaltern, and was sent over to France as Lieutenant of the 42nd Battalion, of Montreal, four months ago. He has two brothers in the service, and one sister, who is a nursing sister. His home in Montreal is at 828 University street.

yards, and Pitts made 10. Fawcett made a nice gain, and Pitts again gained 10 yards, and Gilhooley finished the slaughter by scoring a touch, which Tuohy failed to convert. The score was now 15-2 for Medicine. Fox kicked off for Science, and time was called with Medicine in possession of the ball.

Pitts, Gilhooley, Greenwood and Cully were the stars for Medicine, while Lee, Fox and Parke played well for Science.

ministering to some needs of student life. Perhaps that is the best way of all of showing our gratitude to them. Nothing more need be said on that point. The building is there, fully equipped for service in its own sphere, and every student is free to use it to his heart's content.

Financial Contribution.

Another way by which we can help if we are earnestly appreciative, is by contributing to the financial needs of the work. No institution of the nature of Strathcona Hall, which aims to be of service to its constituency, is self supporting. The services which it is privileged to render to College life mean a considerable financial outlay. Much of that is met by the rental from rooms, which more than pay for themselves. More is met by the generosity of good friends outside the University. But besides these sources of income, which meet by far the greater portion of the cost, Strathcona Hall depends to a certain extent upon the good will of the students, who once a year are given the opportunity of contributing voluntarily to the work. That opportunity presents itself to the student body this week. Some time during the next three days each student will be approached in that connection, and all that is asked is that the work of Strathcona Hall be taken on its merits, and the appeal met accordingly. And please note that the appeal is for the local budget, including the overseas work in Boulogne, but not including the Foreign Mission budget, which will be dealt with separately. Let it be clearly understood, however, that the inability to contribute, bars no one from the full use of the building with all its privileges. The hospitality of Strathcona Hall cannot be bought. It is freely extended to all who come.

Need for Voluntary Workers.

Yet another way in which we can discharge our indebtedness, and show our appreciation is by offering our services toward the successful carrying on of the work. Again, no institution of the nature of Strathcona Hall can "carry on" without the assistance of many voluntary workers. There are Cabinet meetings and Committee meetings, which call into play the varied gifts of various men. All of this work requires time and careful thought, and calls for not a little real sacrifice of time and energy. The response to the call for such voluntary workers has been most gratifying, and after all, perhaps that is the greatest service we can render to such institutions, for without voluntary workers the various activities could not be carried on. And surely such service is worth while, and not without its reflex blessing upon our own lives. Service and sacrifice are the order of the day in the larger field of life, and we can train ourselves for the larger demands by responding cheerfully to the lesser. The man who puts most into life is the man who gets the most out of life, so if we wish to receive the fullest benefits from such institutions around the University, let us give more of ourselves to them, as long as such participation does not seriously interfere with the main issues of University life.

The Aim of the Association.

The foregoing are the principal ways in which we may help such institutions as Strathcona Hall, and in general they answer our question as to how best to meet our obligations regarding such College activities. And now the question may be raised as to why we should encourage and assist this work by patronage, by financial contributions, and by voluntary service. The answer to this latter question is because Strathcona Hall is doing its utmost to meet two outstanding needs of College life, namely, the Social and the Spiritual.

There are in general four sides to the life of every normal man or woman. There are the Intellectual, the Physical, the Social and the Religious or Spiritual, and the well balanced life is the one in which all of these phases or departments are equally well developed. The development of the first of these constitutes the main issue of a University course, although by no means the only issue. Mere Intellectualism apart from the others, would be a sorry failure. The second of these is extremely important, and its development is the business of the various athletic organizations in the University. To the development of these Strathcona Hall does not pretend to minister directly for obvious reasons. About the other two we are deeply concerned, and to them the student Y.M.C.A. would aspire to minister.

Social Side of Student Life.

The development of the Social side of student life is very important, and is deserving of more careful thought than it is receiving. The University as such, strictly speaking, does not pretend to meet this need, and here, in McGill, Strathcona Hall shares with "The Union" the privilege of ministering to this side of student development. Not every University is so well equipped to meet the needs of the social life of its men and women. We are extremely fortunate in that score. Such gatherings as the Freshmen's Reception, the "Conversations," Thanksgiving Dinners, Skating Parties, etc., do much to add a little color to student life, and to brighten it up for us generally. Such functions are recreative in the true sense, and add greatly to the real spirit of College life. Many a person looks back to some of these events as the only real bright spots in an otherwise monotonous and sombre College career. A distinct need is being met here by Strathcona Hall and The McGill Union, and these institutions deserve our loyal support on that score alone, apart from any other. It is worthy of note that all these social functions are carried out without any charge whatsoever to any who come to participate in them. Strathcona Hall considers it a privilege thus to contribute to the social life of our University.

Religious Side of Student Life.

And finally, there is the Religious or Spiritual development of student life. After all that constitutes the main object of Strathcona Hall, and our existence as a College Young Men's Christian Association is justified only in so far as that development is being ministered to, and as the claims of Jesus Christ our Master are presented to the men and women of our University. This pre-eminently important work Strathcona shares with the Young Women's Christian Association of the Royal Victoria College. The method of work is quiet and unassuming. Bible, and Mission study classes are conducted during the greater part of the term. Song services, accompanied by instrumental talks, are a regular part of our programme. Sometimes men of outstanding ability are secured to deliver messages to students, and even to conduct a series of meetings. Many of us remember the messages which stirred us deeply during the visit of Dr. John R. Mott to our University. These and similar lines of work are an important part of the Association's programme. But in no sense does Strathcona Hall presume to replace the Church in the life of the individual student. A concerted effort is made to link up each student with the Church of his own denomination. In ways such as these the Association tries to contribute something to the development of the Spiritual or Christian life of our University.

The best way of all to accomplish anything along the lines of Christian development in the lives of others is to set them an example of unselfish Christian service and behaviour. Service is the dominant note in Christ's teachings. The Christian standard is the Association's standard, even though imperfectly lived up to. However, it tries to render unselfish service to our fellows, and its efforts are not in vain. The writer will remember a real service rendered him by the men who made Strathcona Hall what it is. Eleven years ago I chanced to meet a Third Year Science man who resided in the Hall, and who was one of the directors. He was on his vacation away up in Western Ontario. On learning that I was to enter McGill the next autumn, and knowing that I was a stranger to Montreal and College life, he gave me his address, "Strathcona Hall," with directions to let him know when I would arrive, and he would meet me. I did so, and he made good his promise and met the boat on which I arrived late one night somewhere down in Griffintown. That Strathcona Hall man looked good to us that night, and the friendly interest of a genuinely Christian man, left its mark on my life. That is practical Christianity, the type our Association stands for. Nothing flashy, but genuine. And many a freshman, coming a stranger, to McGill, receives the same reception as I received from Strathcona Hall and the men who are at the heart of the work. It is great work, just being a friend to men, and having the opportunity of doing a kindly act—"Just to live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man." The Association realizes that its work is not perfect, but its motives are the highest, and its motives are right. It is doing what it can, as best it can, and all it asks of you in return is to help it to do more, and do it more perfectly.

The next diversion was watching blinded celebrities, such as the aforementioned Belgian Officer, place eyes in a blind pig. Miss Muir proved to be the better pugilist. Musical chairs followed this, but these developed into more or less of a free fight toward the end, and we have not yet been informed which of the last two competitors was the better pugilist. Suffice it to say that they each got half of the last chair, so we suppose we may presume they were equally matched.

At this stage of the entertainment drooping spirits and flagging energies were revived by frequent applications of sweet cider and doughnuts with peanuts and apples on the side. During this most acceptable collation Miss Muirbatt very kindly presented the prizes to those whose costumes had been decided on as the most original. The Pussy Cat, Miss I. Robertson, was given first prize, and Miss E. Cox as "Jemimah's Husband," the second. According to custom the supper dance was not the last—several enjoyable waltzes and one-steps following it, but finally the end had to come, and at 11 o'clock, "Come fill your glasses up," foreshadowed the finish. "God Save the King," was sung, and after cheers for everybody concerned with the entertainment had been given, the party broke up.

ERNESTINE.

P.S.—We hope that no members of the R.V.C. will object to having their pet jokes "swiped." We should be sorry to annoy them, but some of their witticisms are so rich as to be worthy of a wider circulation than they can receive within these grim, grey walls. —ED.

GOOD SAYINGS.

Three things are necessary in education, natural qualifications, instruction and practice.

Knowledge is the price of labour, culture and reading.

One ought every day to hear a little song, to read a good poem, to see a fine picture and if possible, to speak a few reasonable words.

He that will not reason is a bigot; he that cannot reason is a fool; and he that dares not reason is a slave.

People seldom improve when they have no model but themselves to copy from.

Whatever kind of person you seem to cherish and support, these you will be thought to resemble.

We learn to live when life has passed away.

Nothing is so bad as to be good for nothing.

Nothing dies, not even life, which gives up one form to receive another. No good action, no good example, no generous endeavour, dies; it lives forever in our race.

"The Secret of Success": "The conditions of success are three—first, work; second, concentration; third, fitness. Labour is the genius which changes the ugliness of the world into beauty, which turns the greatest curse into blessing. The person who has learned to work has solved the greatest of the problems that tend to success."

tunity of doing a kindly act—"Just to live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man." The Association realizes that its work is not perfect, but its motives are the highest, and its motives are right. It is doing what it can, as best it can, and all it asks of you in return is to help it to do more, and do it more perfectly.

HORSE CHESTNUTS INSTEAD OF GRAIN IN MANUFACTURE OF MUNITIONS.

It has been discovered that horse-chestnuts can be used by the Ministry of Munitions instead of grain in some important processes of manufacture. This is a very advantageous discovery, as every ton of chestnuts will save half a ton of grain for food, and it is said that the chestnut crop this year amounts to about 200,000 tons.

Owing to this new use to which they can be put, chestnuts are being gathered now in different places in England. During her stay at Sandringham, the Queen has organized parties for collecting them for munition works. She has been accompan-
